D. S. Varela, second captain in Villa's command, gave a graphic descrip-tion of the battle. He was en route to Villa Ahumada with a wagon train to vilia Anumada with a wagon train of supplies for Villa's men when the fight at Rancheria started. He had a command of eight men with him and Ortega asked him to help him in the fight. "One of my men was killed and another was wounded besides myself" Varcia says. "Ortega put up a great fight, and stood in the thickest of it all the time and fought like a man. At one time the federals were so close that we were fighting them with pistols and had they known that could have killed him.

Juarez is in a tremble over the outcome of the battle at Rancheria and the possibility of the rebels making an attack on the town. All of the men and boys in Juarez who volunteered to protect the town in the event of an attack, are to be sent south over the Mexican Central line, leaving Juarez practically unprotected. Gen, Sainzar is to command the expedition to the south, which is to be for the purpose of reinforcing the federals who are reported to be trapped between Samalayuca and Rancheria. Roque Gomez left Thursday morning with 250 federal reinforcements for the federals at Rancheria.

ASSAULT AVENGED BY 17 DEATHS

Americans and Mexicans Form Joint
Posse and Siay Bandits Who Assaulted American Girls.

Mexico City, Mex., Aug. 7.—American and Mexican land owners, without walting for the slow process of Mexican official action, have avenged the outrage upon the two young daughters of Mathew S. Gourd, an American, who were assaulted by bandits a week ago. Seventeen of the bandits have paid the penalty with their lives. Gourd and daughters are now at Galveston, for which place they left as boon as possible after the outrage.

The Americans, Joined by Mexican land owners in the district of Atascadero, near Tampico, organized a posse and rode into the hills in search of the band of outlaws which tied Gourd and robbed him and afterwards offered indignities to two daughters in sight of their helpless father. The band was located and defeated in a fight and soveral of its members were captured.

The 17 killed by the posse included those siain in the fighting and those put to death afterwards.
